

The attacker rewords wholesale, so minimal-edit pairs are scarce

Median normalised distance 0.92 — a typical rewrite changes about as many content words as the original contains. This follows from the reward, which gates on semantic similarity and charges nothing for lexical change. Populating the $D \leq 2$ bin therefore required generating 32,000 additional prompts.

